

Shroud of Turin Expo Announces Summer Extension in San Antonio until July 12, 2015

The extension was sparked by requests from many schools and groups surrounding San Antonio that needed more time to arrange travel to visit the Exposition. The Exposition will remain in San Antonio as the Ostentation of the Shroud will begin April 19 through June 24, in Turin, Italy.

Schools across Texas from Austin, New Braunfels, Laredo and other cities, attended during the Lenten season. Students were able to experience the Exposition's journey through time and science of the Shroud. "One of the many reasons for the extension stems from several Texas' schools requesting the Exposition be extended so they may attend," says Jose Garrigo, CEO of Immersive Planet and Director of the Exposition.

In addition, the Shroud of Turin will host an event on May 2nd, with special guest appearance, Dr. John P. Jackson, the leading scientist who researched and explored the Shroud of Turin Research Project (STURP).

"I am happy to announce our extension through July," says Garrigo. "I am also thrilled to announce Dr. John P. Jackson will be attending a very important event in May, where he will be discussing his experience leading the STURP research group in 1978. This is the first time that Dr. Jackson visits San Antonio and a unique experience to meet the leading scientist of the Shroud of Turin."
